ProNet User Stories

#1

As a team recruiter, I wish to be able to load a ProNet network from an XML file and view the contents so that I can see what programmers are available, what skills they have and who recommends who

#2

As a team recruiter, I wish to know the influence of programmers within the network, so that I can judge which ones might be better.

#3

As a team recruiter, I wish to know how many degrees of separation exist between any two programmers so that I can judge how well they might work together on a team

#4

As a team recruiter, I wish to be able build teams around a specific programmer for a specific skill, and judge the strength of that team based on their relative closeness in the network, how important that skill is to each team member and what each team member's rank in the network is, so that I can experiment with team makeups to find the strongest.

#5

As a team recruiter, I want to see all possible teams of a give size for a specific skill in the network, sorted by strongest to weakest, so that I see which team makeups might be the best available.
